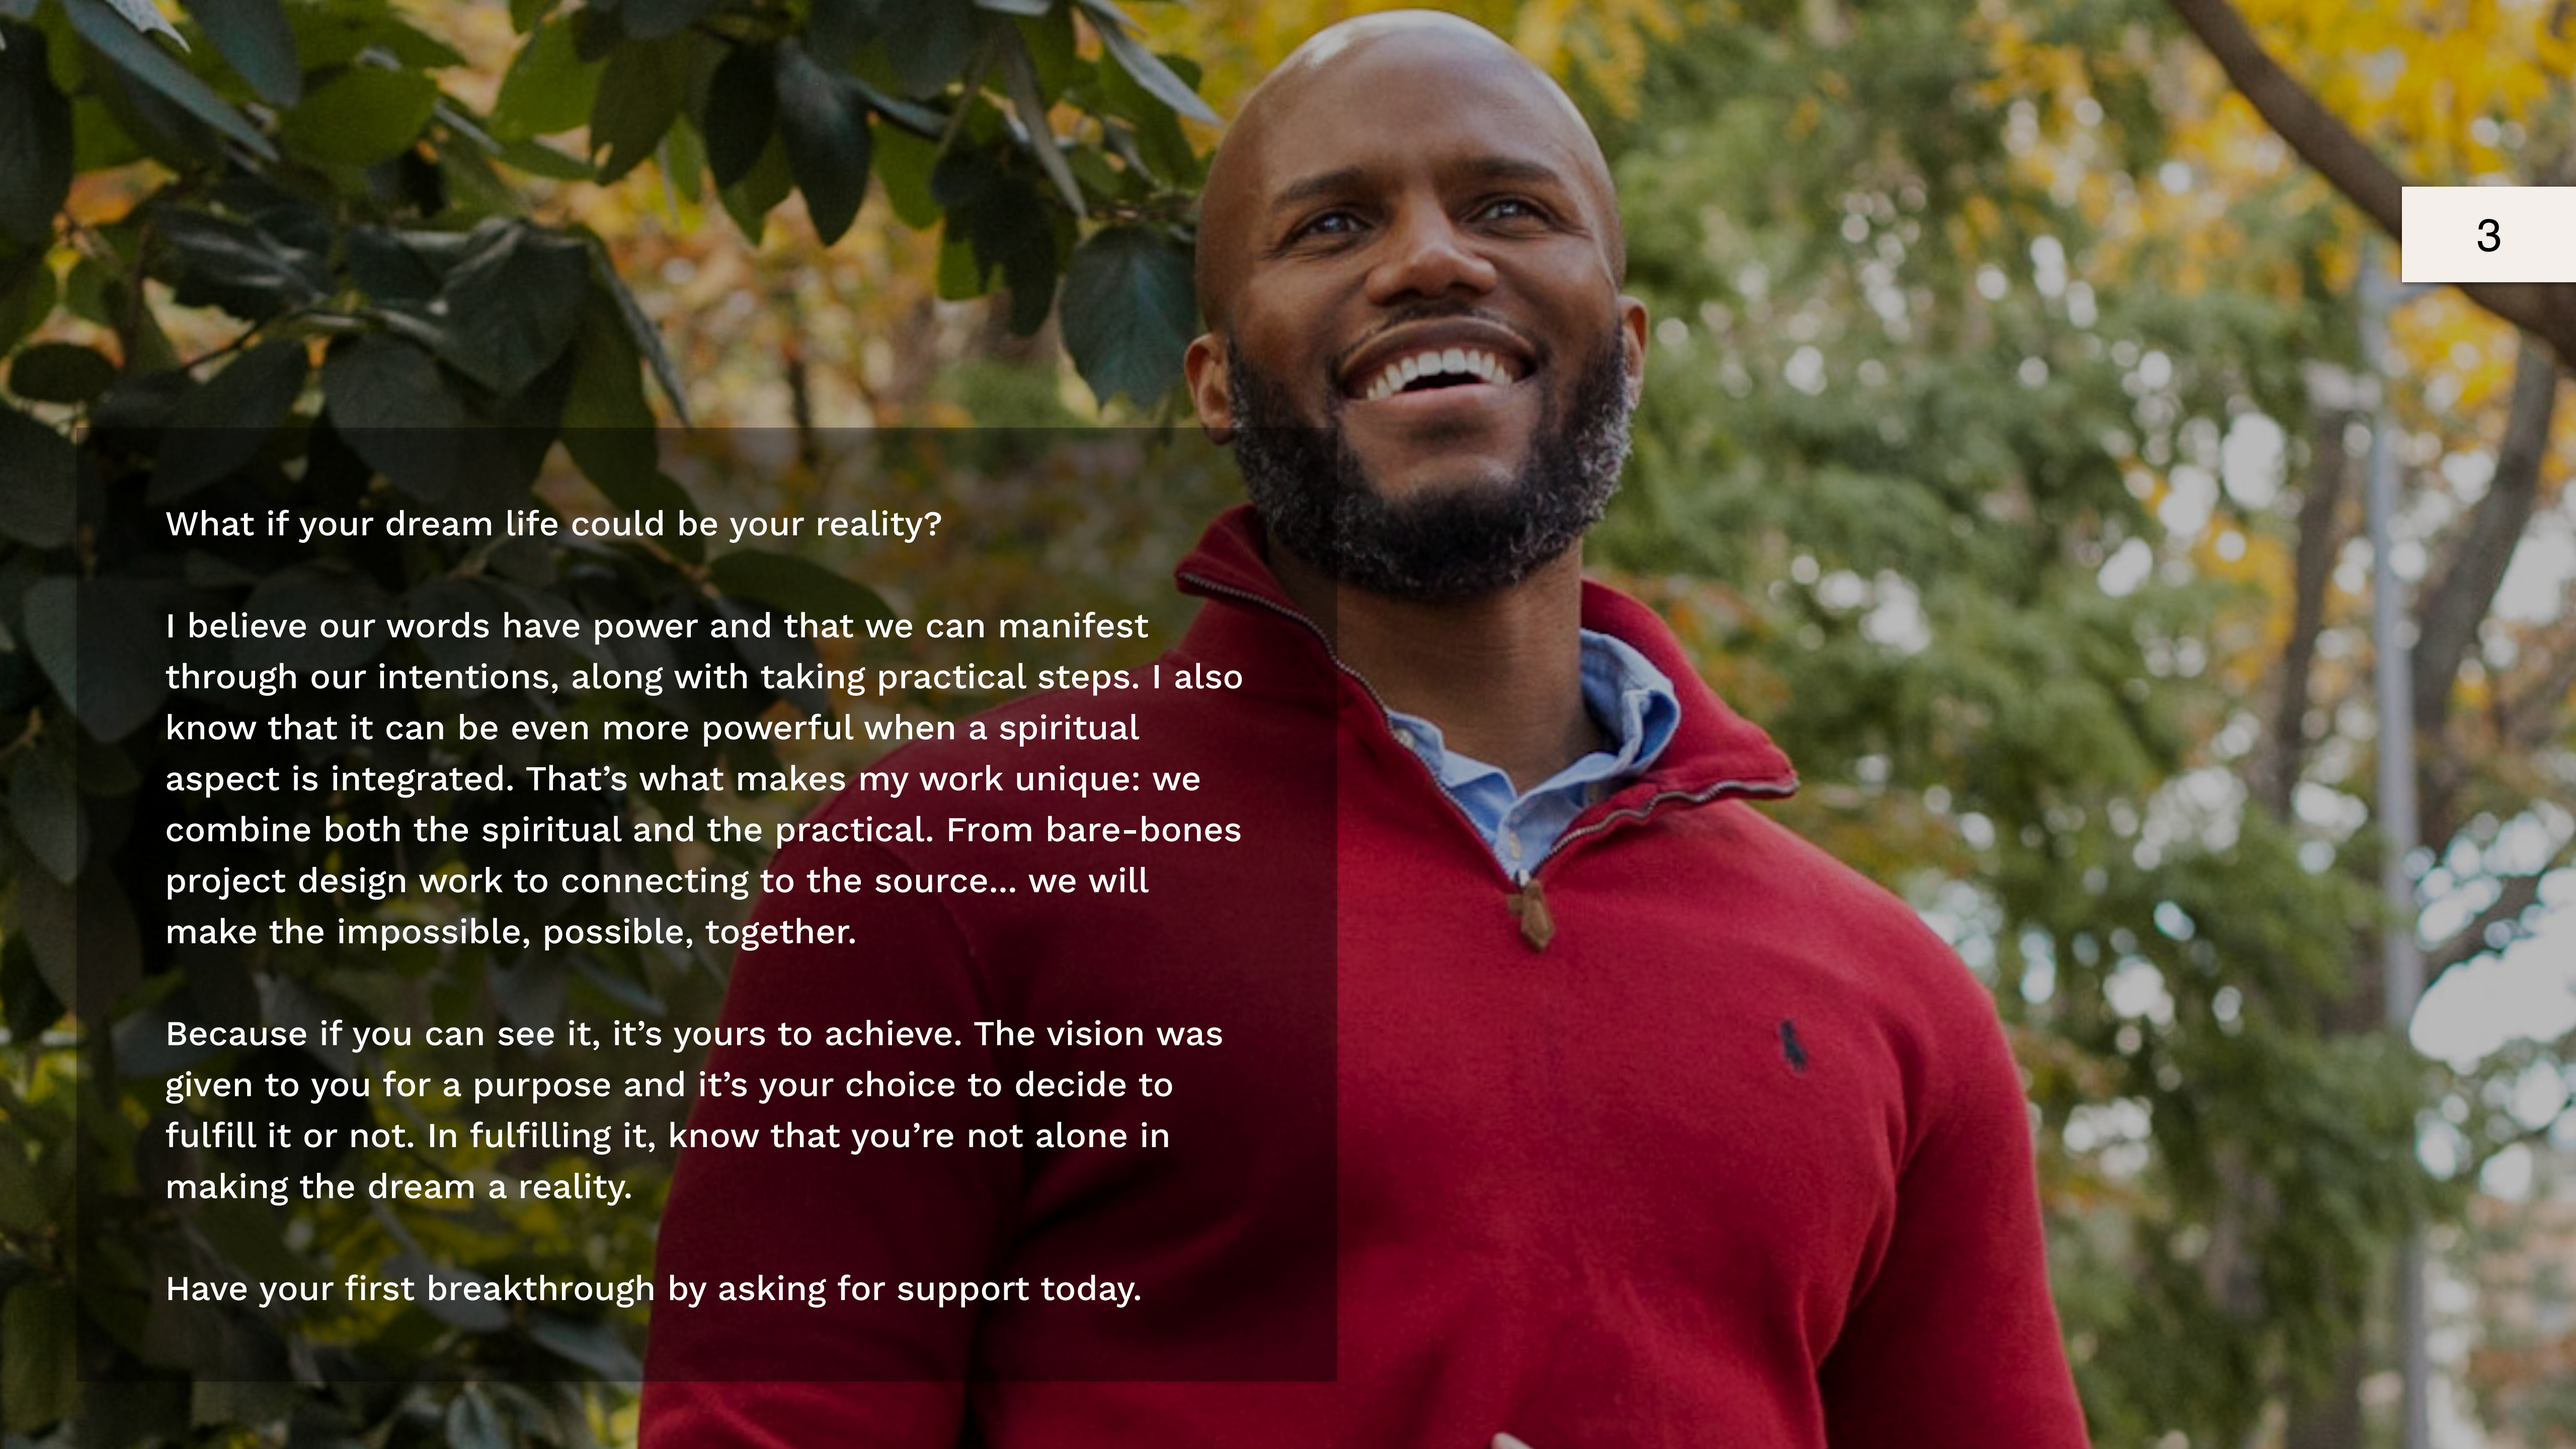
VISIONARY

“I specialize in helping mission-driven leaders and creatives build awareness and take action towards activating their passion, purpose, and power in the pursuit of unlocking possibility in their careers and lives.”



What if your dream life could be your reality?

I believe our words have power and that we can manifest through our intentions, along with taking practical steps. I also know that it can be even more powerful when a spiritual aspect is integrated. That's what makes my work unique: we combine both the spiritual and the practical. From bare-bones project design work to connecting to the source... we will make the impossible, possible, together.

Because if you can see it, it's yours to achieve. The vision was given to you for a purpose and it's your choice to decide to fulfill it or not. In fulfilling it, know that you're not alone in making the dream a reality.

Have your first breakthrough by asking for support today.

MY STORY

It’s such an honor to be doing this work of creating possibilities in people’s lives...

I went from living life half-asleep to fully embracing who I am, then finding the confidence to share it with the world! From working in education and recruitment, to dancing and modeling and using my creative voice as a tool, I am constantly stretching the limits of what I believe is possible, and doing the same for the amazing clients I work with.

How did I get here? I grew up surrounded by family members who were educators, coaches, counselors, and ministers, which naturally led me towards a similar calling in service. Additionally, my experience as a corps member through Teach For America led me to see firsthand the injustices in our education systems. From that moment forward, I made a commitment to create more equality in education and help people become the best version of themselves.

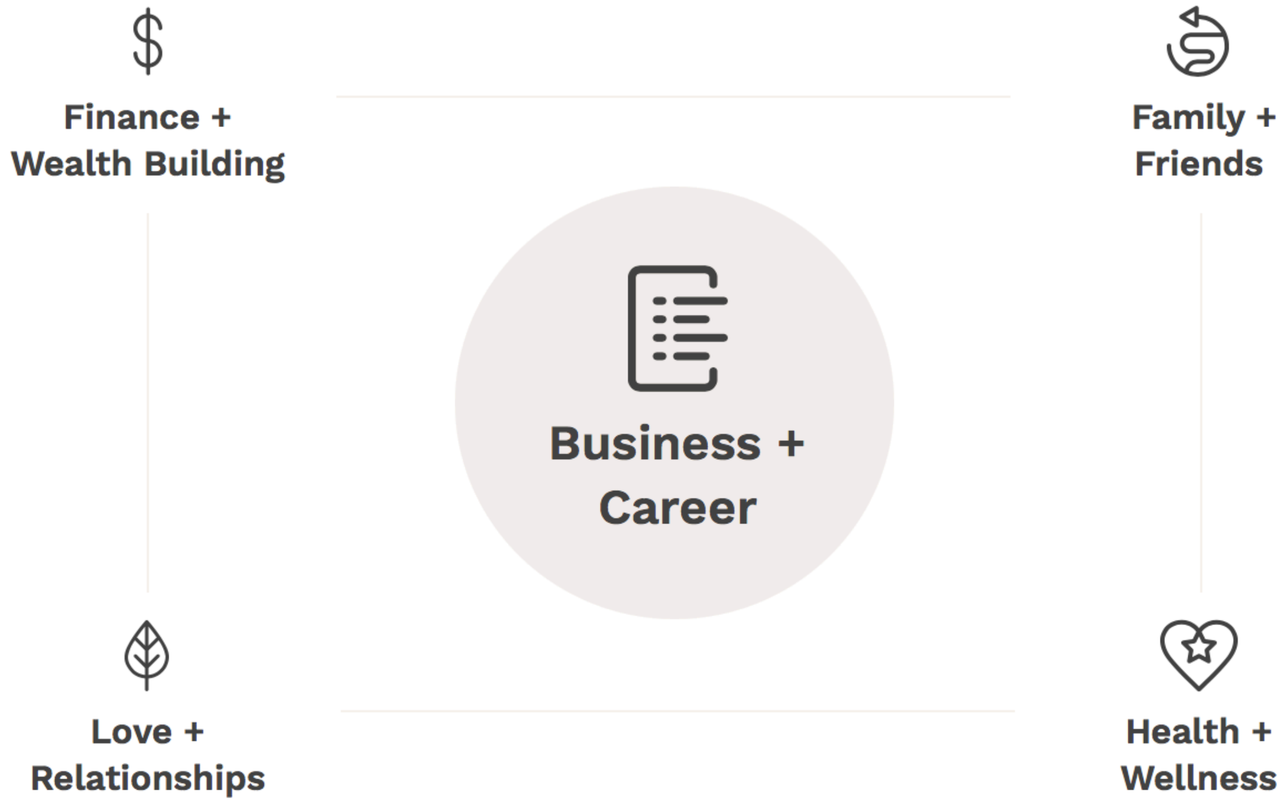
After transitioning from Miami to New York City, I found recruiting to be the next path towards this goal. From one-on-one coaching to talent placement and talent recruitment and hiring, I’ve worked with non-profits, educational organizations and for-profits to help enhance and drive forward their strategic talent plan. Through this line of work, I grew a deeper understanding that people need support not only in finding a job but in finding their purpose.

Beyond just helping people think about their next steps, I see the value in helping them create a solid foundation that feeds their passions and aligns with their WHY. With goals to increase annual income, find the courage to move across the country, strengthen relationships, or improve performance at work...my clients have had huge breakthroughs as the result of our work together.

If you’re ready to stretch beyond what YOU believe to be impossible— not just in your career, but in all aspects of your life— reach out and let’s get the power of your possibility in motion!

COACHING APPROACH

CHOOSE ANY ONE AREA TO FOCUS ON



INDIVIDUAL COACHING

PURPOSE + PASSION + POWER = POSSIBILITY

All of my coaching packages are customized to you and your needs and desires. Choose any one area to focus on with me, or let's dive right into Possibility, to combine all three. During your complimentary consultation session, I'll help you customize a plan that works best for you!

INDIVIDUAL COACHING

PURPOSE

Let’s get clear on your purpose: the mission, the calling of your life. Without knowing your true purpose, you might feel stuck, directionless, at a plateau with your work, relationships, or well-being. It is through clarity around the mission that we can take daily actions towards achieving your calling in this lifetime.

PASSION

In our daily walk towards Purpose, we are taking committed action towards a calling. We can be passionate about the committed action we take towards our purpose every single day. When it comes to your career, your relationships with family and friends, or the relationships you have with yourself, are you passionate about your life and the people around you? Can Passion fuel your triumphs as well as your challenges? Let’s tap into Passion and have it drive you towards your higher calling.

POWER

What sources you? What powers you? Do you currently feel as if you give so much that you don’t have enough left for yourself? What’s the on-button that turns you on so passion and purpose can reign? The journey towards fulfilling your calling is a long one and so knowing what sources you - and giving it back to yourself - is imperative. It is through knowing what powers us that we are able to live out passion and purpose consistently.

ORGANIZATIONAL COACHING

STRONGER TEAMS + BETTER RESULTS = MORE IMPACT

My Leadership Development Programs are aimed at providing mission-driven organizations with the support needed to build a strong team culture and create more impact in the world. Our team of coaches are here to work with you and your team to customize the right plan towards your success.

WHEN IS COACHING RIGHT FOR YOUR TEAM?

We believe coaching can advance people and teams at any point throughout the year, but it is especially powerful in the midst of the following opportunities and challenges:

- The team is working through significant interpersonal communication challenges.
- The team is taking on a major project.
- The team is experiencing a shift in leadership or team dynamics.
- The team is feeling lost and would like support in grounding around purpose and passion.
- The team is ready to pivot into a new direction.

We call these moments of change inflection points. We aim to support people and teams who are meeting their inflection points with a deep desire to be ALL IN— ready to be bold, journey inward, and do the work to support internal transformation. That is our main criterion for coaching people and teams— the timing, need for additional support, and all-in attitude.
